

The WORK-IN-NET Project

Eating an Apple Pie or a Humble Pie?

Tuomo Alasoini

Finnish Funding Agency for Technology and Innovation

tuomo.alasoini\(at\)tekes.fi

Reframing the Question

- Inspiration vs. perspiration?
- Celebration vs. administration?
- A very good project vs. a good project?

On the Apple Pie Side We Will Find....

- The WORK-IN-NET Project helped create many new relations and reinforce many old ones.

On the Apple Pie Side We Will Also Find.....

- The WORK-IN-NET Project was a huge learning experience for those actively involved (in our case, the benchmarking activities in particular).

On the Apple Pie Side We Will Finally Find.....

- The WORK-IN-NET Project helped combine our knowledge and experience for doing something together and better than alone.

On the Humble Pie Side We Will Find....

- In the WORK-IN-NET Project , we should have had more time for discussing together and making a greater contribution to the development of new concepts for design, participation and dissemination.

On the Humble Pie Side We Will Also Find.....

- In the WORK-IN-NET Project, we should have managed better in attracting new actors, particularly from the Southern and Eastern parts of Europe, into the play with us.

On the Humble Pie Side We Will Finally Find.....

- In the WORK-IN-NET Project, we should have managed better in making our message through and understandable for policy makers, the social partners, NGOs and the common man.

Why WORK-IN-NET was a Very Good Project?

- It paved the way for future joint action, firstly, by showing that this is desperately needed on European level, and, secondly, by showing that we can work together and have a great fun while working together!